

COCKTAILS

TEQUILA DAISY

It's widely speculated that the Tequila Daisy cocktail was the precursor to the now famous Margarita. In fact, the word 'Margarita' translates to 'Daisy' in Spanish, so you know it's legit.

THE DAISY

Served tall w crushed ice

Tequila Daisy .....	Patron Silver, Triple Sec, Lime, Soda, Tiki Bitters .....	20
Pink Paloma .....	Patron Silver, Campari, Grapefruit, Grapefruit Soda .....	20

MEZCAL

Mezcal use many different types of agave. The regional name (Maguey) can often be the same name in different towns however the scientific agave species is actually different. The Maguey is usually listed in the name of the product. In Italics we have listed the Agave species then the town it comes from within the state.

TEQUILA VS MEZCAL

What is Mezcal and how is it different to Tequila? Mezcal is the generic word for a spirit made from the Agave plant. So, Tequila by rights is indeed a Mezcal however a Mezcal is not a Tequila unless produced using only the Blue Weber Agave in one of the 5 classified states surrounding the town of Tequila in the Western state of Jalisco. Mezcal can be made in 9 different states and from more than 30 different varieties of Agave. Mezcal is still predominately hand distilled the traditional way by small family operations and must be 100% agave. Today Tequila may be called Tequila with only 51% Agave. Given the 7 years it takes to mature an Agave plant it's not surprising that short cuts have been taken. We ensure all our tequila are 100% agave based and look for quality and sustainability in the products we stock.

AGE CLASSIFICATIONS

Blanco

Also called Silver or Plata, it's clear & typically un-aged or aged less than 2 months in stainless steel or neutral oak.

Reposado

Aged between 2 & 11 months in American oak.
This oak treatment enhances depth and flavour.

Anejo

Aged in maximum 600L barrels (usually old whiskey barrels) between 12 months and 3 years.

Extra Anejo

Aged in maximum 600L barrels for minimum 3 years plus. The most aged form of tequila. Oak tends to dominate the flavour profile. Also the most expensive category due to the evaporation of the Tequila over the aging process known as the 'angel's share'.
